

APRIL 2021

"Spring adds new life and new joy to all that is." – Jessica Harrelson

It is crazy to think that it has officially been over a year since COVID-19 disrupted the entire world. As things start to turn around, our office would like to take a moment to thank every single frontline worker across the country that has fought day in and day out to take care of their patients. Thank you also to all of the healthcare workers and volunteers distributing the vaccine. Your work has not gone unnoticed and we are so thankful for all that you have done. We would not be on the path of onward and upward if it wasn't for you all.

As always our office would like to touch on highlights from over the past month, but before we get to that we would like to bring back a podcast that our owner, Jo-Anna Nieves, was featured in called "Jo-Anna Nieves- A Lawyer Flourishing In The World of Criminal Law" produced by FemNation. Jo-Anna discusses her journey as a lawyer and entrepreneur in a predominantly male industry. Check out Jo-Anna's inspiring story at whitedovegannon.com.

On March 9, 2021, Attorney Grace Goodman visited Middle College Peninsula via Zoom to talk to the young generation about law school and what her experience has been like being a criminal defense lawyer. "I practice law under the idea that it's important to always advocate for your client, but it's more powerful to advocate WITH your client," - Attorney Grace Goodman.

On March 11, 2021 Jo-Anna Nieves was interviewed by Louis J. Goodman's podcast "Love Thy Lawyer." This event was hosted by the Alameda County Bar Association. During the podcast, Jo-Anna goes into detail about her experiences as a lawyer who has been practicing for a decade and her diverse upbringing. Louis takes Jo-Anna as far back as her high school activities, such as karate, to her experiences in Tallahassee at Florida State University. Jo-Anna, like many, had no clue that she wanted to attend law school until she decided to take the LSAT (Law School Admissions Test) simply because her two friends were studying for it.
